Electron Beam Processes statement concerning COVID-19

We wanted to let you know what we're doing in response to the Coronavirus outbreak to protect our staff and customers.

We're following the government health advice to make sure our customers and our colleagues stay safe and we are putting all the necessary measures in place to ensure this advice is followed by everyone. We understand this is a challenging time and we've put our robust business continuity plans into action so we can make sure we can still supply all our customers across the world.

We have identified areas which we consider to be critical to enable us to operate. Within these areas, we have developed operational continuity plans to ensure we have enough resources to keep our business running safely and minimize the impact on our production to enable us to continue to supply to our customers. A portion of employees who are critical to maintaining operations have been assigned to rotating teams who will be in the offices during alternating shift patterns. Those who can perform their jobs from home and do not have to be in our offices, will begin working from home to minimize any potential virus transmission between employees.

We have also implemented business and personal travel guidelines and a mandatory 14-day quarantine of any employees who have been in any areas of concern. We have also shared the same expectations with our on-site contracting companies and logistics providers to also mitigate the risk of spread into our operations areas.

Our team will continue to monitor and guide all measures which should be taken during this event and take actions necessary to ensure our operations continue running as smoothly as possible.

We realise this situation remains very dynamic, and we will continue to provide updates as and when necessary. We are confident in our preparation and contingency planning to deal with this unprecedented situation.

EBP remain committed to providing the superior service and support that our customers have come to expect of our company throughout these very uncertain times.
